

I do not agree that the federal 'do not call' program should supercede WI state 'do not call' program as the Wisconsin program provides greater consumer protection. The federal program still allows companies and the 'affiliates' to continue contacting you even though you have no desire for them to do so. Allowing the federal program to supercede Wisconsin's 'do not call' program only benefits the telemarketers and annoys the consumers, who by registering with the 'do not call' program have already stated that they do not wish to be contacted. Wake up FCC!
